

Making Sense of Governance

Sponsored by AWSNA—Northern California Region

A One-day Workshop
for Waldorf Schools

with Jackie Henson
& John Bloom

September 11, 2010
10:00am - 5:00pm

San Francisco Waldorf High School
470 West Portal Ave.
(ample parking available)

Making Sense of Governance is an in-depth presentation of what good non-profit governance is, how it works, and the basic tenets and legal responsibilities of Boards of Trustees. With an awareness of the particular challenges of Waldorf Schools and spirit-based organizations, both Jackie Henson and John Bloom will address the important aspects of governance in the context of our schools' stages of development. There will be ample time for dialogue and small group conversations

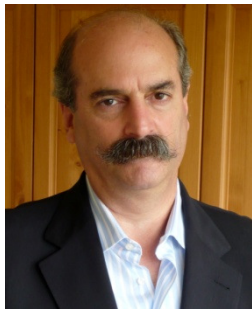

This workshop is designed for trustees, administrators, and teachers, especially faculty or college chairs—all who concern themselves with the governance of the school. It is recommended that teams come from each of the organizations. This is a great opportunity to share knowledge, experience, and build relationships with other Waldorf schools in the Northern California region.

There is no charge for this workshop. Lunch will be provided if you RSVP with the number attending from your school by September 1, 2010 to Joan Caldarera at jcaldarera@sfwaldorf.org.

Presenter Biographies

Jacqueline A. Henson is chair of the Ober|Kaler Nonprofit Organizations Group and also is a member of the firm's lobbying and election law practice. With over 25 years of experience in the nonprofit arena representing trade associations, public charities, private foundations and political organizations, she brings a first-hand, client-focused perspective to her practice. Jackie counsels nonprofits and not-for-profit organizations on a wide range of business and legal matters, including tax, governance, lobbying/campaign finance compliance, corporate and executive compensation issues. More on her broad range of experience can be found at <http://www.ober.com/attorneys/jacqueline-henson>

John Bloom is Director of Organizational Culture at RSF Social Finance in San Francisco (www.rsfsocialfinance.org). As part of his work at RSF he has been developing and facilitating conversations on money, as well as other educational programs that address the intersection of money and spirit in personal and social transformation. He has worked with over 100 non-profits over the last seven years in the areas of capacity building and culture change. He has led many workshops, lectured, and written about aspects of money, development, and governance for non-profits. John has founded two non-profits, served as a trustee on several, including Yggdrasil Land Foundation, an agricultural land trust, and worked as the administrator at San Francisco Waldorf School for eight years before joining RSF. He holds an MFA in painting and photography, has work in major collections, and sees the integration of the arts as essential to healthy organizational life. His book, The Genius of Money: Essays and Interviews Reimagining the Financial World (SteinerBooks) was published in October 2009.
